DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1-40 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:
 - Ide (6,801,011) discloses motor control methods that feature a high-frequency voltage or current having a different frequency from a driving frequency that is superimposed on a synchronous motor and the synchronous motor is controlled by using the position of a magnetic pole, which is estimated based on the electrical saliency of the structure of a rotor. See col. 1, ll. 58-63.
 - With respect to claims 1, 20, and 39, the Prior Art does not disclose a superimposing unit for superimposing a superimposed current on a drive current for driving the motor, where the superimposed current has a different frequency from a frequency of the drive current; a feature target generating means that calculates a target value of a feature based on at least one of the length of a long axis of either a current or voltage vector locus, respectively, and the length of a short axis, corresponding to the target torque; a separating means for separating the superimposed current from the current supplied to the electric motor; and an actual feature detecting means that detects an actual value of the feature based on at least one length of a long axis of either a current or voltage vector locus of the superimposed current separated by the separating means and the length of a short axis; and a phase angle detecting means that detects a phase angle based on the actual and featured target values.

Art Unit: 2837

- With respect to claim 40, the primary reason for allowance is because the Prior Art does not disclose calculating a target value of a feature, where “a feature” is interpreted based on the specification, based on at least one of the length of a long axis of a current vector locus and the length of a short axis vector locus, corresponding to a target torque for the electric motor; and superimposing a superimposed current on a drive current for driving the electric motor, thereby detecting an actual value of the feature based on at least one of the length of the long axis of a current vector locus of the superimposed current and the length of the short axis of the current vector locus.
3. Therefore, based on the arguments and amendments presented by the Applicant, the Examiner acknowledges the Prior Art fails to make obvious the Applicant’s claimed invention.
 4. Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled “Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance.”
